PEKING AWAITS MAJOR CLASH

120,000 MEN IN FIELD TO CHECK MANCHURIANS WHO PIERCE GREAT WALL

Chang Tso Lin's Troops In First Offensive Line Smashes Into Shanghaikwan After Bombarding Key City From Air, and Penetrate Barrier at Chiumen, 18 Miles West.

SMALL GOVERNMENT DETACHMENTS ON PATROL DUTY ARE DEFEATED

Vanguard of Peking Forces, Now Between War Lord's Soldiers and Capital, Rebel's Objective, Is Composed of 30,000 Crack Troops Commanded by Feng Yu Hsiang.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The first of the major engagements between the main forces of Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria, and the Peking government are expected to take place tomorrow or Monday, according to official dispatches received in Washington today.

The dispatches said General Wu Pei Fu, generalissimo of the Peking government forces, has just completed full mobilization and has put 120,000 men in the field to stop the sweep of the Manchurian forces. Chang Tso Lin is estimated to have 100,000 men either in his first offensive line, which has just broken through the Great Wall at Shanghaikwan after bombarding that key city from the air, or in the secondary force which pierced the wall at Chiumen, 18 miles west of Shanghaikwan, the eastern end of the wall.

In breaking through the wall at Shanghaikwan, the Manchurian forces have defeated the small government detachments which have been on patrol duty there as well as a small additional force which General Wu sent as a stop gap with the intention of holding Chang off long enough for him to complete mobilization by the government troops.

Mayor Brown Puts Ban On Premature Hallowe'en Pranks

Premature Hallowe'en celebrations in East Liverpool were placed under a police ban Saturday with a warning that offenders will be arrested and fined.

Complaints by the scores have been reaching city hall during the last few days. Mayor Brown announced Saturday that orders had been issued to the police to arrest children who soap windows, throw eggs and commit other pranks before October 31.

Several plainclothes men will be placed on duty on Hallowe'en night to guard against damage to property.

"Other Man" Named In "Perfect Love" Case Resumes Work

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Frederick W. Hart, the "other man," in the now famous Hall-Quest "perfect love" case, returned to his desk in a Chicago office today pending the removal of the last obstruction to his marriage to Mrs. Shirley Iva Knox Hall-Quest, the granting of a divorce by Cincinnati to his wife.

Mrs. Hall-Quest is in hiding, and Hart said, he had not seen her since soon after they hurriedly left an Evanston hotel, last Tuesday following the divorce obtained by Hall-Quest on Monday, nor does he expect to see her until after Mrs. Hall has obtained her divorce he indicated.

SHENANDOAH, COMPLETING JUMP FROM FORT WORTH, LEAVES SAN DIEGO FOR CAMP LEWIS, WASH.

By WILLIAM G. GAYCE.

NORTHERN ISLAND, SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 11.—Two of her three 500-horse power motors having been repaired during the night, in addition to taking aboard a quantity of Helium gas, gasoline, water and other supplies, the United States Navy dirigible Shenandoah, which was finally moored to her mast here at 1:00 o'clock this morning after successfully completing her jump from Fort Worth, Texas, was ready at day break today to resume her flight to Camp Lewis, Washington.

Rear Admiral William Moffet, chief of the Bureau of Naval aeronautics announced that the Shenandoah would leave here today between 10 o'clock and noon.

"We want to reach San Francisco by sundown today at least," Admiral Moffet said. According to his schedule the giant "Devilish of the air" would pass over Los Angeles about 2 o'clock and reach her destination at Camp Lewis late tomorrow.

Honor "Daughter of Skies." While the Shenandoah was only to be here a few hours today a steady stream of people started to North Island at an early hour to see the big ship as well as attend the aerial spectacle to be staged in honor of the "Daughter of the Skies." This program started at 8 a. m. and included all kinds of aerial flying by more than 100 planes.

The Shenandoah, shining in the light of a bright moon, hove into sight here slightly to the northwest at 10:50 last night. She was riding easily at a 6,000 foot altitude and making good speed. She then circled widely to the south, silhouetted against the blue black sky, resembling a huge cucumber as she slowly nosed downward and finally eased to the earth on the landing field 200 yards from her mooring mast at 11:40.

Rear Admiral Moffet, the first to step to earth, was greeted by Captain T. F. Craven, commander of the naval air station here, and other ranking officers. Commander Zachary Lansdowne, in charge of the Shenandoah, and the other officers and members of the crew alighted next and were warmly congratulated by several hundred persons who had braved the cold night for several hours to see the airship safely brought to rest here.

Battling Wind, Rain and Snow. A few minutes later, 200 blue jacks from the naval air station grabbed the mooring lines of the Shenandoah and with the aid of one of her powerful motors "walked" her to the mooring mast where she was safely anchored for the night at 1:00 a. m.

As soon as the giant ship was "tied" the work of putting her in condition for the hop to Camp Lewis was started.

The hop from Fort Worth to San Diego was without incident until late yesterday when the Shenandoah passed over Yuma and into California. Just as she was ready to negotiate the high Cuyamaca mountains east of her heavy clouds were encountered and it was decided to take a course to the north, reaching the coast by the way of the San Bernardino mountains. But in trying to pass through the San Geronima gorge shortly after sunset the Shenandoah encountered contrary headwinds, rain and snow. The velocity of the headwinds were so strong, it was stated that her speed was reduced to 10 miles per hour, which caused a five-hour delay in her arrival here. After once negotiating the treacherous San Bernardino mountains, however, the Shenandoah headed south with strong tail winds and rode with east winds to North Island.

"The trip so far has been all that could have been asked," Admiral Moffet said. "She has stood the trip in perfect shape and has proved the success of such a flight."

"The motors functioned perfectly all the way from Lakehurst and it was not until we reached the San Bernardino mountains that we encountered the slightest difficulty. But that really was nothing—just a little wind, snow and rain. She came through in perfect condition."

"This trip also shows the feasibility of a flight across the Atlantic in mail carrying to Europe in two days and across the Pacific in four days."

However, when questioned if such a flight was being contemplated Ad-

Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin company and commander of the ZR-3 in its trans-Atlantic trip, had kept constantly in touch with the weather situation along the vessel's proposed route, receiving reports by radio from points along the southern route.

It had been planned to take the dirigible across Basel, Switzerland, to Bordeaux and thence to the Azores.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The dirigible ZR-3 is ready to start for America, but is awaiting a favorable weather report on conditions west of England. Captain George W. Steele, the senior American naval observer, advised the navy department today.

MUSIC LOVERS LAUD ARTIST

Mme. Gray-Lhevinne, Violinist, Wins Plaudits Here.

Mme. Estella Gray-Lhevinne, noted violinist, pleased two large audiences at the high school auditorium, Friday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the department of music in the public schools.

With a charming personality and a gracious manner, she won the rapt interest of her audiences before a note was sounded at either of the concerts. Her technique was pleasing and the word "wonderful" was on every person's lips.

Several hundred students of the high school and the upper elementary grades heard the matinee concert, lasting about one and one-half hours, and were loathe to leave at the conclusion of the program, crowding around to see the artist's 200-year-old violin and secure Mme. Gray-Lhevinne's autograph.

The evening program was of the highest order, the artist demonstrating her ability to meet any situation and satisfy any group of people, old and young alike.

James Gray, who accompanied Mme. Gray-Lhevinne, deserves the highest praise for the sympathetic, intelligent, yet masterful manner, in which he supported the artist.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray are traveling by motor. They will appear in a concert at Indianapolis, Ind., Saturday evening.

Life of Slayer Of Employer Saved On 18th Birthday

MIDDLEBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—Ralph Shadel, 18, confessed slayer of Harvey Willow, his employer, in a mountain thicket last December, was sentenced to not more than 20 nor less than 10 years in the Eastern penitentiary today by Judge Miles E. Potter.

Shadel, his boyish face beaming with the joy of a new-born life, stood quiet and calm as the sentence was pronounced. Since a second degree verdict was returned late yesterday afternoon, he has entirely changed from dazed, callow youth that has lived in the shadows of death since his confession last August.

Today he expressed his joy that his life had been spared on his 18th birthday. His one wish, he declared, was for this chance.

A few of the rails were also under pressure, Lehigh declining to 55¢; St. Paul pfld. near its record low at 9¢; Pittsburgh and West Virginia Southern Railway, Norfolk and West Virginian, and Nickel Plate yielding from a fraction to 2 points.

Prairie Oil and Gas declined sharply to 23. Maryland Oil was heavy on reports of contemplated new borrowing and sold down to 31¢. Texas Company was also singled out for attack, declining to 38¢ on heavy selling. Other oils held their ground.

Traiders were more interested in lightening their loads wherever possible than extending them. Some stocks appeared to be in a solid out condition, and efforts to depress prices were not as successful as in other sections of the list. American Can at 28¢ showed a loss of five points from Friday's high.

HIGHS PLAYING
MARTINS FERRY

Wellsville high school grididers will face their sternest test of the season to date when they battle with Martins Ferry scholastic grididers on Saturday afternoon at Martins Ferry.

The squad Friday night rounded out a week of hard practice work in preparation for the Martins Ferry engagement, regarded as one of the hardest on the schedule.

The remainder of the scheduled games, with possibly one exception, promises nothing but hard work for the Orange and Black. After Martins Ferry comes Chester, the West Virginians heretofore proving real opponents. Then, in succession, are carded Bellaire, Leetonia, and Munro Junction, all at Wellsville. The next on the list, Toronto, may give the locals a breathing space, but the final event of the season will put the squad up against one of the outstanding elevens of the valley, the Steubenville team.

Lou Tellegen, Again
On Screen, in Cinema
Play at American

The coming of "Single Wives," the first National Picture co-featuring Corina Griffith and Milton Sills, in the American theatre next Monday heralds the return to the screen of Lou Tellegen.

Tellegen starred for a time until he returned to the stage for several seasons, but he was induced to re-enter pictures in the role of Martha Prayle, "the other man" in "Single Wives," the story of modern matrriage.

Before entering pictures several years ago Tellegen was leading man for three of the greatest actresses the world has ever known. Relaine, Bernhard, and Busse, and was known all over Europe as the most promising romantic actor.

Born in Athens, Greece, he was taken to Holland before he was one year old. He was raised and educated there. His mother was known as Anna Maria and was a celebrated Spanish dancer in her day. His father was a general in the Greek and Dutch armies and was famed as a strategist.

Tellegen had military training in the French army, which accounts for his splendid bearing on the screen. He is now an American citizen.

It was while playing at the Odeon theatre in Paris that the divine Sarah Bernhardt first saw and immediately requisitioned him as her leading man. He toured the world with this famous actress as her leading man and was seen in America for two seasons in this capacity.

After that, Stuart said, he left his wife forever.

Quits Wife Who Beat
Him With Wooden Leg;
Divorce Suit Filed

LOS ANGELES—For twenty-eight years the married life of William and Luella Stuart was a tranquil affair. Then they began to quarrel, according to a divorce suit filed here by Stuart, their troubles culminating when, according to Stuart, his wife ran off with his artificial leg.

Stuart, he asserted, gave chase, but when he caught up with his wife, she beat him up the head with the wooden limb and then tried to garrot him with a cord.

After that, Stuart said, he left his wife forever.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1924.

Record Vote Indicated

East Liverpool, like other cities in Ohio and the nation, undoubtedly will record an extraordinarily heavy vote at the presidential, state, district and county election on Tuesday, November 4, judging from the record registration here on two of the four enrollment days designated by the election supervisors.

Reports show that more than 4,000, approximately one half of the voting strength, have qualified, with Friday and Saturday, October 17 and 18, the remaining registration days, expected to reveal even greater totals than October 2 and 9.

And indicative of the interest in the coming battle of ballots is the fact that scores of East Liverpool voters who were not registered during the last four years have been awakened from their lethargy and are complying with requirements to safeguard their right of suffrage at the fall election.

This means that the presidential race, in which President Calvin Coolidge, the Republican nominee, is gaining strength daily, is the magnet. Thousands of electors throughout the nation, who heretofore have been classed among the stay-at-home voters, intend to go to the polls this year, to support the nation's chieftain who has won the plaudits of his countrymen by the splendid manner in which he has guided the ship of state.

This trend of the voters toward the Republican ticket is revealed by all polls. The current report of the Literary Digest's survey shows that Mr. Coolidge has more votes than Robert M. LaFollette, the Independent Progressive, and John W. Davis, Democrat, together.

Of the 1,451,591 voters in 42 states who have registered their choice in the poll, 808,340 prefer the Republican candidate, 351,178 declare they favor LaFollette, while 275,674 intend to support Davis. LaFollette is in second place in 22 states, thus corroborating the belief of experts that the Democratic nomination shall run a poor third in the balloting on November 4.

All signs indicate Calvin Coolidge will continue as the nation's leader for four more years.

Round-the-World Thrills

It was expected that the American round-the-world flyers would complete their trip successfully. Such elaborate preparations had been made to aid them and to rescue them if anything went wrong that sometimes Americans felt as if much of the sporting quality of the venture had been lost. It develops, however, that there was considerable danger and thrill and romantic adventure in the undertaking after all.

Lieutenant Wade reports that the most interesting part of the trip to him was the crossing of the Taurus mountains in Asia Minor, where the machines had to fly single file through a narrow gorge, the wings of the planes nearly touching the sides, and with heavy clouds hanging overhead, while a rushing torrent foamed beneath them.

Lieutenants Nelson and Harding found it thrilling to see pieces of metal and piston rings fly out of the exhaust pipe when an exhaust valve guide broke while they were over the Sind desert, 55 miles from Karachi, India. In the face of such circumstances they admit they were "a little uneasy, due to the fact that the country, 6,000 feet below, was nothing but rough, sandy desert in all directions and a forced landing on the rolling, hilly and cactus-infested sands would probably wreck the plane."

In French Indo-China, while passing along the edge of a monsoon, Lieutenants Smith and Arnold found themselves saved from encrusted by the sudden appearance of smoke pouring out of their engine. While Smith was making the necessary landing, Arnold seized a fire extinguisher, climbed out of his cockpit, scrambled over the struts of the plane despite a heavy gale, and got down to the bottom of the engine. He had the fire out promptly upon alighting, even before Smith had climbed out of his seat. A broken part was replaced by a new one brought 50 miles overland on a donkey's back.

When a man embraces a girl he shows his love for her in a roundabout way.—Delaware (O.) Gazette.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

20—THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

The home of the library of congress is the creation of American architects, sculptors and painters. It is not only a beautiful structure outside and inside, but is admirably designed for the purposes it is intended to serve. Situated in the center of a 19-acre plot of ground, and covering more than four acres of this, it is one of the best-lighted buildings in the world. It is built in the shape of a large square, enclosing a great central court, which is cut into sections by book-stacks radiating from a rotunda in the center of the square. It has more than 2,000 windows, is three stories high, and the central rotunda is surmounted by a magnificent gold-covered dome.

At the outset there were three stacks possessing a total of 44 miles of bookshelves, with a capacity of approximately 2,000,000 volumes. Since that time another stack has been built, which adds another million volumes to the capacity of the library. It is arranged so that still other stacks may be added, and the ultimate capacity will be more than 4,000,000 volume, counting nine volumes to the foot. This would make a single row of books more than a hundred miles long.

Keeping the government's books in condition is a formidable task. It takes two men with a vacuum machine a month to clean the books in a single stack. At this rate they can make the rounds of the building in six months. As the stacks are almost dust proof and damp keeping, this housekeeping is not so negligent as it sounds. There is no trouble with ants or bookworms. Imported books, which might have become inhabited on shipboard, are disinfected, and in the dry and unctuous atmosphere of the stacks any hardy survivors perish. At one time cockroaches got into some of the books and developed an enormous appetite for the glaze in the bookram covers. They also ate the gold off the titles and decorations because of the albumen it contained.

Buckram, utilitarian and unromantic, is supplanting morocco and calf bindings. It is believed that buckram will outlast modern, acid-tanned leather, and it is even contended that it will wear longer than the old, hand-prepared calf-free leathers. It will be some time before this point is settled, because buckram has been in use only about 25 years, and a fine grade of old leather has been known to stand more than two centuries of wear.

NEWSPAPERS 200 YEARS OLD

Back in the stacks are 60,000 volumes of bound newspaper from a valuable file of "The Boston News Letter" beginning in 1710 down to the news sheets of the present year. This current record of American history is of the greatest usefulness. Research workers are always busy at the periodical room tables, surrounded by great volumes of bound newspapers. Of the 7,550 magazines available in this division, 1,500 are filed on open shelves in the periodical room for ready reference. The collection includes not only popular magazines but also specialized publications on a range of subjects from books to philosophy and from hairdressing to tombstones.

It is one of the cherished ideas of the librarian of congress that the library shall be made a great national institution, which will unlock all the treasures of the literary world to the serious students of the United States. Although the greatest library in the Western Hemisphere, there are still many works lacking from the collection of the library of congress. The same is true of every other library in America. Not one of them has a complete collection. But what one of them lacks another possesses, and by a properly organized system of co-operation they may make available for all of them every book possessed by any one of them. Such a system of co-operation will give to the United States a library service superior to that of any other country in the world. The federal government has other libraries than the library of congress, and they make Uncle Sam the owner of more than 5,000,000 volumes. Each of the principal departments and bureaus of the government maintains a special library dealing with the subjects with which it is principally concerned.

The "Petit Trianon" at Versailles." And he went back to sucking his lollipop. It is one of the social graces to have a 12 or 14-year-old daughter receive at afternoon tea.

The great elders with the non-balance of an experienced husband. There are no abashed giggles or awkward pauses. Some of them seem able to pick out the stupid and label the clever. And they make those ill at ease feel perfectly at home.

The one finds boys in short pants who have roamed the world. They can discuss Rome, London, Cairo and Paris intelligently. They have seen the latest plays and read the most talked about books of the day. There is a ghostly pertinency about them.

Perhaps the New Age is better. Yet many of us cannot help feeling sorry for youngsters who have been denied the pleasures of going barefoot, skinning the cat, playing in musty haymows, building bon fires and exploring the topmost branches of trees.

The other day a neighbor's boy of 13 departed alone for San Francisco to meet his parents returning from the Orient. He engaged his drawing room and attended to all details. At the same age I traveled from St. Louis to Kansas City. I was tagged and put in charge of the conductor and never moved in my seat. Had it not been for the train butcher's glass revolver filled with peppermint drops I think I would have died of loneliness.

It is told of two New York street sweepers who were discussing a coworker what had gone the way of all flesh.

"He swept a clean street," declared one.

"Yes," replied the other, "but between you and me he was a little weak around fire plugs."

New York street sweepers, by the way, are the only men who adhere to the comic paper tradition of smoking a pipe upside down. Nearly all who smoke pipes follow this custom. Also they are the only people who pay no attention to traffic dangers. They wield brushes in perfect oblivion to darting motors. They put the burden of safety on the drivers and as a consequence the casualties among them is nil.

One of those impeccable hotels on the avenue attempted as adroitly as possible to caution a western patron against wearing cowboy boots around the foyer. It was intimated the dereliction in dress was an affront to the refined atmosphere of the place. The patron accepted the warning, but three days later rode on the elevator with an assistant manager who was going to the barbershop clad in sandals and lounging robe and was sockless. NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The sophistication of

New York youngsters is amazing to those of us who in our youth sat like "little gentlemen" on a parlor chair—seen but not heard—when company came. We don't know how to act in their presence these days.

Shyness among them is extinct. Youngsters of 8 and 10 discuss grown up topics as casually as a fish takes to water. A nurse in Central park pointed out a little shelter house along one of the by-paths. "Is it not beautiful?" she asked.

Her young charge immediately replied: "It is a bummer production of the 'Petit Trianon' at Versailles." And he went back to sucking his lollipop. It is one of the social graces to have a 12 or 14-year-old daughter receive at afternoon tea.

The great elders with the non-balance of an experienced husband. There are no abashed giggles or awkward pauses. Some of them seem able to pick out the stupid and label the clever. And they make those ill at ease feel perfectly at home.

The one finds boys in short pants who have roamed the world. They can discuss Rome, London, Cairo and Paris intelligently. They have seen the latest plays and read the most talked about books of the day. There is a ghostly pertinency about them.

Perhaps the New Age is better. Yet many of us cannot help feeling sorry for youngsters who have been denied the pleasures of going barefoot, skinning the cat, playing in musty haymows, building bon fires and exploring the topmost branches of trees.

The other day a neighbor's boy of 13 departed alone for San Francisco to meet his parents returning from the Orient. He engaged his drawing room and attended to all details. At the same age I traveled from St. Louis to Kansas City. I was tagged and put in charge of the conductor and never moved in my seat. Had it not been for the train butcher's glass revolver filled with peppermint drops I think I would have died of loneliness.

It is told of two New York street sweepers who were discussing a coworker what had gone the way of all flesh.

"He swept a clean street," declared one.

"Yes," replied the other, "but between you and me he was a little weak around fire plugs."

New York street sweepers, by the way, are the only men who adhere to the comic paper tradition of smoking a pipe upside down. Nearly all who smoke pipes follow this custom. Also they are the only people who pay no attention to traffic dangers. They wield brushes in perfect oblivion to darting motors. They put the burden of safety on the drivers and as a consequence the casualties among them is nil.

One of those impeccable hotels on the avenue attempted as adroitly as possible to caution a western patron against wearing cowboy boots around the foyer. It was intimated the dereliction in dress was an affront to the refined atmosphere of the place. The patron accepted the warning, but three days later rode on the elevator with an assistant manager who was going to the barbershop clad in sandals and lounging robe and was sockless. The westerner's wife was with him. He said nothing. He merely grabbed him by the neck and knocked his head against the side of the elevator. "AIR FREE" SAYS COOLIDGE

President Coolidge notifies the world in general, including would-be monopolists of radio privileges, that nobody will be "allowed to monopolize the air."

That's welcome. Ordinary monopolies the people recognize as national American institutions—electric light, railroads and other things. But they would like the air to remain free, if possible. Even in front of gasoline stations you see the sign, "free air." The president should be congratulated on having put that sign up outside the White House.

PIRACY BREEDS PIRACY

Thirty Chinese "passengers" boarded a ship at Shanghai. A little later, as pirates, they took possession of the ship, made the captain steer to a little island, and took $300,000 in Chinese currency.

A young Japanese of "good family," smiling defiantly at the court, is accused of committing many murders as a pirate of the high seas. He admits that he set sail with some followers in a small vessel, seized a Russian ship, killed the entire crew, threw them overboard, and then went on his way, a gay pirate. This, he said, was Japanese patriotism, to avenge certain crimes of the Bolsheviks.

When big nations set the example in piracy, individuals quickly follow.

WHAT AILS THE CHURCH?

What is the matter with the church? Many old-fashioned preachers ask that question. Clergymen, secure in their pulpits, like the distinguished Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in London, calmly tell you that one of the great apostles was not inspired—he only had epileptic fits. All this isn't new.

Aristophanes, in his comedy, "The Clouds," written 400 years before Christ, satirizing "modernists" of his time, declared that they would drive out Zeus and put vertex in his place. In other words, Zeus, or Jupiter, ruler of the universe, was to be replaced by a scientific explanation showing that the earth wasn't created at all, but came out of a whirling vortex.

Clergymen are making every effort to restore religious enthusiasm.

In New York's Cathedral of St. John the Divine, yesterday, 60 bishops, magnificently robed in brilliant colors, accompanied by "honorary canons," the clergy of the cathedral, the choir, etc., paraded through a building that cost millions of dollars. That was impressive.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1924.

Record Vote Indicated

East Liverpool, like other cities in Ohio and the nation, undoubtedly will record an extraordinarily heavy vote at the presidential, state, district and county election on Tuesday, November 4, judging from the record registration here on two of the four enrollment days designated by the election supervisors.

Reports show that more than 4,000, approximately one half of the voting strength, have qualified, with Friday and Saturday, October 17 and 18, the remaining registration days, expected to reveal even greater totals than October 2 and 9.

And indicative of the interest in the coming battle of ballots is the fact that scores of East Liverpool voters who were not registered during the last four years have been awakened from their lethargy and are complying with requirements to safeguard their right of suffrage at the fall election.

This means that the presidential race, in which President Calvin Coolidge, the Republican nominee, is gaining strength daily, is the magnet. Thousands of electors throughout the nation, who heretofore have been classed among the stay-at-home voters, intend to go to the polls this year, to support the nation's chieftain who has won the plaudits of his countrymen by the splendid manner in which he has guided the ship of state.

This trend of the voters toward the Republican ticket is revealed by all polls. The current report of the Literary Digest's survey shows that Mr. Coolidge has more votes than Robert M. LaFollette, the Independent Progressive, and John W. Davis, Democrat, together.

Of the 1,451,591 voters in 42 states who have registered their choice in the poll, 808,340 prefer the Republican candidate, 351,178 declare they favor LaFollette, while 275,674 intend to support Davis. LaFollette is in second place in 22 states, thus corroborating the belief of experts that the Democratic nonentity shall run a poor third in the balloting on November 4.

All signs indicate Calvin Coolidge will continue as the nation's leader for four more years.

Round-the-World Thrills

It was expected that the American round-the-world flyers would complete their trip successfully. Such elaborate preparations had been made to aid them and to rescue them if anything went wrong that sometimes Americans felt as if much of the sporting quality of the venture had been lost. It develops, however, that there was considerable danger and thrill and romantic adventure in the undertaking after all.

Lieutenant Wade reports that the most interesting part of the trip to him was the crossing of the Taurus mountains in Asia Minor, where the machines had to fly single file through a narrow gorge, the wings of the planes nearly touching the sides, and with heavy clouds hanging overhead, while a rushing torrent foamed beneath them.

Lieutenants Nelson and Harding found it thrilling to see pieces of metal and piston rings fly out of the exhaust pipe when an exhaust valve guide broke while they were over the Sind desert, 55 miles from Karachi, India. In the face of such circumstances they admit they were "a little uneasy, due to the fact that the country, 6,000 feet below, was nothing but rough, sandy desert in all directions and a forced landing on the rolling, hilly and cañon-infested sands would probably wreck the plane."

In French Indo-China, while passing along the edge of a monsoon, Lieutenants Smith and Arnold found themselves saved from engulf by the sudden appearance of smoke pouring out of their engine. While Smith was making the necessary landing, Arnold seized a fire extinguisher, climbed out of his cockpit, scrambled over the struts of the plane despite a heavy gale, and got down to the bottom of the engine. He had the fire out promptly upon alighting, even before Smith had climbed out of his seat. A broken part was replaced by a new one brought 50 miles overland on a donkey's back.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

20—THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

The home of the Library of Congress is the creation of American architects, sculptors and painters. It is not only a beautiful structure outside and inside, but is admirably designed for the purposes it is intended to serve. Situated in the center of a 19-acre plot of ground, and covering more than four acres of this, it is one of the best-lighted buildings in the world. It is built in the shape of a large square, inclosing a great central court, which is cut into sections by bookstacks radiating from a rotunda in the center of the square. It has more than 2,000 windows, is three stories high, and the central rotunda is surmounted by a magnificent gold-covered dome.

At the outset there were three stacks possessing a total of 44 miles of bookshelves, with a capacity of approximately 2,000,000 volumes. Since that time another stack has been built, which adds another million volumes to the capacity of the library. It is arranged so that still other stacks may be added, and the ultimate capacity will be more than 4,000,000 volumes, counting nine volumes to the foot. This would make a single row of books more than a hundred miles long.

Keeping the government's books in condition is a formidable task. It takes two men with a vacuum machine a month to clean the books in a single stack. At this rate they can make the rounds of the building in six months. As the stacks are almost dust proof and damp proof, this housekeeping is not so negligent as it sounds. There is no trouble with ants or bookworms. Imported books, which might have become inhabited on shipboard, are disinfected, and in the dry and uncentennial atmosphere of the stacks any hardy survivors perish. At one time cockroaches got into some of the books and developed an enormous appetite for the glaze in the buckram covers. They also ate the gold off the titles and decorations because of the albumen it contained.

Buckram, utilitarian and unromantic, is supplanting morocco and calf bindings. It is believed that buckram will outlast modern, acid-tanned leather, and it is even contended that it will wear longer than the old, hand-prepared saddle-free leathers. It will be some time before this point is settled, because buckram has been in use only about 25 years, and a fine grade of old leather has been known to stand more than two centuries of wear.

NEWSPAPERS 200 YEARS OLD

Back in the stacks are 60,000 volumes of bound newspaper from a valuable file of "The Boston News Letter" beginning in 1710 down to the news sheets of the present year. This current record of American history is of the greatest usefulness. Research workers are always busy at the periodical room tables, surrounded by great volumes of bound newspapers. Of the 7,550 magazines available in this division, 1,500 are filed on open shelves in the periodical room for ready reference. The collection includes not only popular magazines but also specialized publications on a range of subjects from dog to philosophy and from hairdressing to tombstones.

It is one of the cherished ideas of the librarian of Congress that the library shall be made a great national institution, which will unlock all the treasures of the literary world to the serious students of the United States. Although the greatest library in the Western Hemisphere, there are still many works lacking from the collection of the Library of Congress. The same is true of every other library in America. Not one of them has a complete collection. But what one of them lacks another possesses, and by a properly organized system of co-operation they may make available for all of them every book possessed by any one of them. Such a system of co-operation will give to the United States a library service superior to that of any other country in the world. The federal government has other libraries than the Library of Congress, and they make Uncle Sam the owner of more than 5,000,000 volumes. Each of the principal departments and bureaus of the government maintains a special library dealing with the subjects with which it is principally concerned. For instance, the Bureau of Education has the world's best library on educational matters; the Bureau of Fisheries has the finest library in existence on aquatic life; the Bureau of Standards possesses a magnificent library on scientific subjects; and the library of the office of the Surgeon General of the United States Army is regarded as the greatest medical library in the world. Each a system of co-operation has been established between these various libraries that they are practically one as far as research work is concerned.

MUSIC ALSO INCLUDED

The music division has almost 1,000,000 volumes, pieces of music in sheet form and pamphlets, including many thousands of volumes of full scores of operas and symphonic works. The collection of opera libretti is unequalled. Several musical manuscripts by Robert Louis Stevenson attract unusual attention because few people knew that Stevenson wrote music. The fact is he played the flute for his health and occasionally wrote melodies, none of which was ever published. The original hand-written of Nevin's famous song, "The Rosary," is displayed in the music division, and also the manuscript of the rollicking "Stein Song."

In the manuscripts division may be seen the papers of the continental congress, and of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and others, transferred from the state department, together with various collections, the results of gifts as well as of purchases, which are now indispensable to students of American history in search of original material. The total number of pieces in the collection cannot be stated with precision, but one single group contains a hundred thousand pieces. The historic Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States have recently been moved from the state department to the library of Congress.

Handwriting of the most famous characters in American history is carefully preserved in this division. The two original drafts of the Gettysburg address are here, in Lincoln's well-known hand, proving that the president did not dash off his masterpiece on an old envelope as he journeyed to Gettysburg. One of the drafts is written on White House stationery, partly in pencil. The first paper and the revised copy differ slightly from the address as it was finally delivered.

WHEN GEORGE DECLINED

The most interesting Washington manuscript, perhaps, is the reply to a certain major who, in 1782, suggested that Washington become king, as the experiment of democracy seemed to be a failure. Washington immediately seized his quill and wrote (in part): "With a mixture of great surprise and astonishment I have read the sentiments you have submitted for my perusal . . . If you have any regard for your country, concern for yourself or posterity, or respect for me, banish these thoughts from your mind." To make impossible any future doubt as to his reply to this offer, Washington had his two aids witness the letter.

A file of the Charleston Courier, bought for a considerable sum, has been widely used to determine the question of royalty in the case of those who make claims for reimbursement for property destroyed by federal troops during the Civil War. The venerable and lamented Ainsworth R. Spofford, under whose administration the library structure was built, and to whose memory it always will be a monument, once said that there should never be a census of books in the Republic. He asserted that no man could tell what portion of the trash of today would be the treasure of tomorrow.

It is interesting to reflect that all of the wonderful collections in this government library started with 6,400 books belonging to Thomas Jefferson. When the capitol was burned in 1814, the govern-

"In the first place we must rely on religion.

"Our religion has no mannerisms and no affectations. But we have created a few interests for the young.

"Not dancing and the theater. We are opposed to entertainment upon the stage unless for educational purposes.

"We offer religion and recreation, but religion must dominate recreation. Nothing is permitted in our pleasures contrary to our principles. That is of first importance.

This is a materialistic age. And while most young people without religion will not give themselves up to the baser sins they will give up entirely to the pursuit of pleasure."

Exposure to evil, the sowing of wild oats, is condemned by both Commissioners Estill. For parents to condone this dangerous activity on the part of youth is fatal. It is also ignorant, as stupid as old-fashioned idea that it was better to let a child catch scarlet fever, anyway, and "have it over with."

Terrible results have been seen in deliberation exposure to both moral and physical illness.

It is possible—the Estills say, speaking for the army—to counteract Mammon with a combination of religion and recreation.

"We have our Girl Guards, similar to the Girl Scouts, and the Boy Guards, like the Boy Scouts.

We have our Young People's Legion, corresponding to the Christian Endeavor, with monthly social gatherings.

In these meetings there is an active religious spirit that doesn't diminish, because they are happy social affairs. The intense happiness that religion gives is there.

"Then we have our brass bands and our songsters' brigade."

Referring to the great happiness the Estills have found in their work, Mrs. Estill said:

"Husband and wife take the same title in the service before I was married, and now four of our six children are active in the same work. The eldest, Major William Thomas Estill, is a divisional commander in Great Britain. He is 49. Also in England is our son Herbert, 22. He is an adjutant.

"Olive Bernice, Mrs. Andrews, is an ensign in Philadelphia, and another daughter, Katherine, Mrs. Wesley, is a captain in Charleston."

POEMS THAT LIVE

Autumn's Fires.

Now Autumn's fires burn slowly along the woods, And day by day the dead leaves fall and melt, And night by night the monitory blast walls in the keyhole, telling how it pass'd. O'er empty fields, or upland solitudes, or grim, wide wave; and now the power is felt. Of melancholy, tenderer in its moods Than any joy indulgent Summer dealt.

POINTS WAY TO BETTER HEALTH

Woman Tells How She Overcame Stomach, Liver and Kidney Ills With Ka-di-oh.

MRS. GRACE O'DONNELL.

"My system was terribly run down; I couldn't sleep at night; had lost my appetite; was nervous and suffered with a backache that made it almost impossible to do my work at times." Such was the misery that Mrs. Grace O'Donnell, 2237 S. High street, Columbus, Ohio, suffered until she discovered Ka-di-oh, the herbal remedy that thousands have endorsed for disorders of the digestive and eliminative organs.

Mrs. O'Donnell, who is a member of St. Leo's Catholic church there, tells her story that others suffering in a like way may follow in her steps on the road to health and happiness. After taking Ka-di-oh she says, "Ka-di-oh has done me a lot of good and I can safely recommend it to others for the same ailments. It has peped up my system and has given me a good appetite. My backache has gone. I get good rest at night and feel much better in every way."

Thousands of people in all walks of life throughout the country have proclaimed Ka-di-oh "the world's greatest remedy." Don't endure the misery that faulty digestive or eliminative organs bring on. Good health is the birthright of everybody. Get a bottle of Ka-di-oh today.

Ka-di-oh can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 West 6th street—adv.

American Beauty Dances Into Wedlock With Rich ArgentineSays Church Plate In United States Tells on Donor

LONDON—Weird tales of America are heard in England; but the rector of Halewood prints this one in his parish paper:

"A new collection plate is reported to have been invented on the other side of the Atlantic which possesses the following valuable, if extortionate, properties:

"1. If you put in nothing, it weighs.

"2. If you put in five cents, it exclaims, 'Good Lord!'

"3. If, however, you put in a penny, it makes a noise like Hell!" and takes your photograph.

Church wardens and finance committees are reported to be keenly interested.

"I don't wonder."

Because we do not appreciate the importance of early diagnosis and treatment, about ninety per cent of cancers terminate fatally.

Safe Fat Reduction

Why be fat? The answer of most fat people is that constant dieting is hard, continual exercise tiresome, exhausting—and then, too, it might be harmful to force the weight down. That was the old-fashioned idea. Today in Marmoleum Prescription Tablets all these difficulties are overcome. Just a pleasant little tablet after each meal, at bed time, takes off the vanity. The modern method is easy, entails no dieting or exercising, and has the added advantage of cheapness.

Get a box of these tablets and start taking them now. Within a short time you will be getting rid of fat steadily and easily without starving diet or strenuous exercise. You will be comfortable and able to enjoy the food you like and want. Even after taking off many pounds, there will be no flabbiness or wrinkles remaining. You will feel 100 per cent better.

"2. If you put in five cents, it exclaims, 'Good Lord!'

"3. If, however, you put in a penny, it makes a noise like Hell!" and takes your photograph.

American Beauty Dances Into Wedlock With Rich ArgentineSays Church Plate In United States Tells on Donor

LONDON—Weird tales of America are heard in England; but the rector of Halesowen prints this one in his parish paper:

"A new collection plate is reported to have been invented on the other side of the Atlantic which possesses the following valuable, if extortive, properties:

"1. If you put in nothing, it whistles.

"2. If you put in five cents, it exclaims, 'Good Lord!'

"3. If, however, you put in a penny, it makes a noise like Hell!" and takes your photograph.

Church wardens and finance committees are reported to be keenly interested.

"I don't wonder."

Because we do not appreciate the importance of early diagnosis and treatment, about ninety per cent of cancers terminate fatally.

Safe Fat Reduction

Why be fat? The answer of most fat people is that constant dieting is hard, continual exercise is tiresome and exhaustive—and then, too, it might be harmful to force the weight down. That was the old-fashioned idea. Today in America, however, the fat people are overcome. Just a pleasant little tablet after each meal and at bedtime causes fat to vanish. This modern method is easy, entails no dieting or exercising and has no side effects or dangerous chemicals.

Get a box of these tablets and start taking them now. Within a short time you will be getting rid of fat steadily and easily without starvation diet or tiresome exercise. You will feel better, look better and live longer.

Take one tablet a day and you will lose pounds, there will be no flabbiness or wrinkles remaining. You will feel 100 per cent better.

All drug stores the world over sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at one dollar for a box.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By JACKSON GREGORY.

But Lee had neither eyes nor thought for them, nor remembrance of his own change from working garb to that of polite society. The dance came to a lingering end, the couples throughout the big room strolled up and down, clapping their hands softly or vehemently as their natures or degree of enthusiasm dictated, and Lee forgot Marcia and sought eagerly for a glimpse of Judith.

Refused a second encore, the couples stood about chatting, the hum of lively voices bespeaking eager enjoyment. There was no early chill upon the assembly, to be dissipated as the dance wore on; the day of festivity outdoors had thawed the thin crust of icy strangeness which is so natural a part of such a function as this. Already it seemed that everybody was on the most cheerful terms with everybody else.

Suddenly his eyes, still seeking Judith, found Marcia. Surrounded by a little knot of men, each of them plainly seeking to become her happy partner for the next dance, adorably helpless as usual, Miss Langworthy was allowing the men to fight it out among themselves. Lee moved a little nearer to see her better. In a pale-blue gown, fluffy as a summer cloud, her cheeks delicately flushed, a white rose like a snowdrop in the gold of her hair, she was flutteringly happy, reminding him of those little meadow blues that had flown palpitatively about him that day in the fields. And she was obviously as much at her ease, in an atmosphere of music and flattery, as the tiny butterflies in their own meadows.

But Lee came in, his tall form conspicuous, and went straight to Marcia. She saw him immediately; forgot herself to stare almost as Carson had done; smiled at him brightly; waved her fan to him.

He took her hand and told her with his eyes how pretty she was. The delicate tint in Marcia's cheeks deepened and warmed, her eyes grew even brighter.

"Flatterer!" she chided him. "Are we to talk of the moth and the star again, Mr. Lee?"

The knot of men about her melted away. Lee stood looking down into her upturned eyes, measuring her gentle beauty. He had thought of her as a little blue butterfly—she was more like a wee white moth, fluttering, fluttering . . .

The music, again from a hidden distance, set fast to tapping. Marcia plainly hesitated, flashed a quick look from Lee to the others about them, then whispered hurriedly:

"It's terrible of me, but—"

As she slipped her hand into his arm, cast another searching glance over her shoulder for a partner who had been too tardy in finding her, and yielded to the temptation to have this first dance with "the most terribly fascinating man there!" Lee slipped his arm about her, felt her sway with him, and lightly they caught the beat of the dance and lost themselves in it. And still, again and again turning away from Marcia, he sought Judith.

The dance over, their talk was interrupted by an excited and rather over-dignified youth with a hurt look in his young worshiping eyes, who stiffly reminded Miss Langworthy that she had cut his dance. She was so contrite and helpless about it that the youth's heart was touched; she blamed herself for her terribly stupid way of always getting things tangled up, gave him the promise of the next dance, which she had already given to some one else, disposed of him with charming skill, and sighed as she turned again to Lee.

"I haven't paid my respects to our hostess," he said quietly. "Where is Miss Sanford?"

"She sent her excuses," Marcia told him. "Aren't we in a draft, Mr. Lee?"

He moved with her away from the soft current of air, a distinct disappointment moving him to the verge of sudden anger. What business had Judith to stay away?

"You mean she isn't coming at all?" he asked quickly.

"Oh, no," she told him, busy with the rose in her hair, her eyes bright on his. "Just as the dance was beginning she had to go to the telephone. Some ranch business, I don't know what. But she sent word she would be here immediately—I believe," and Marcia made her remark teasingly, though she did want to know, "that a certain mysterious gentleman who masquerades as a horse-breaker is very much interested in Judith."

"What makes you say a thing like that?" he asked, startled a little.

Marcia laughed.

"A woman's intuition, Sir Mystery!" she informed him gaily.

"What does the woman's intuition find to be the mysterious gentleman's interest in a certain Miss Langworthy?" he asked lightly.

"It tells her that he likes her; that it would be fun for him to come and play with her; that he would be kind and courteous; but that he considers her very much as he would a foolish little butterfly!"

Again she startled him. He looked at her wonderingly. But before he could frame a bantering reply, Marcia had involuntarily gripped at his arm with a look upon her face that first was sheer bewilderment, and was crying for him to look yonder.

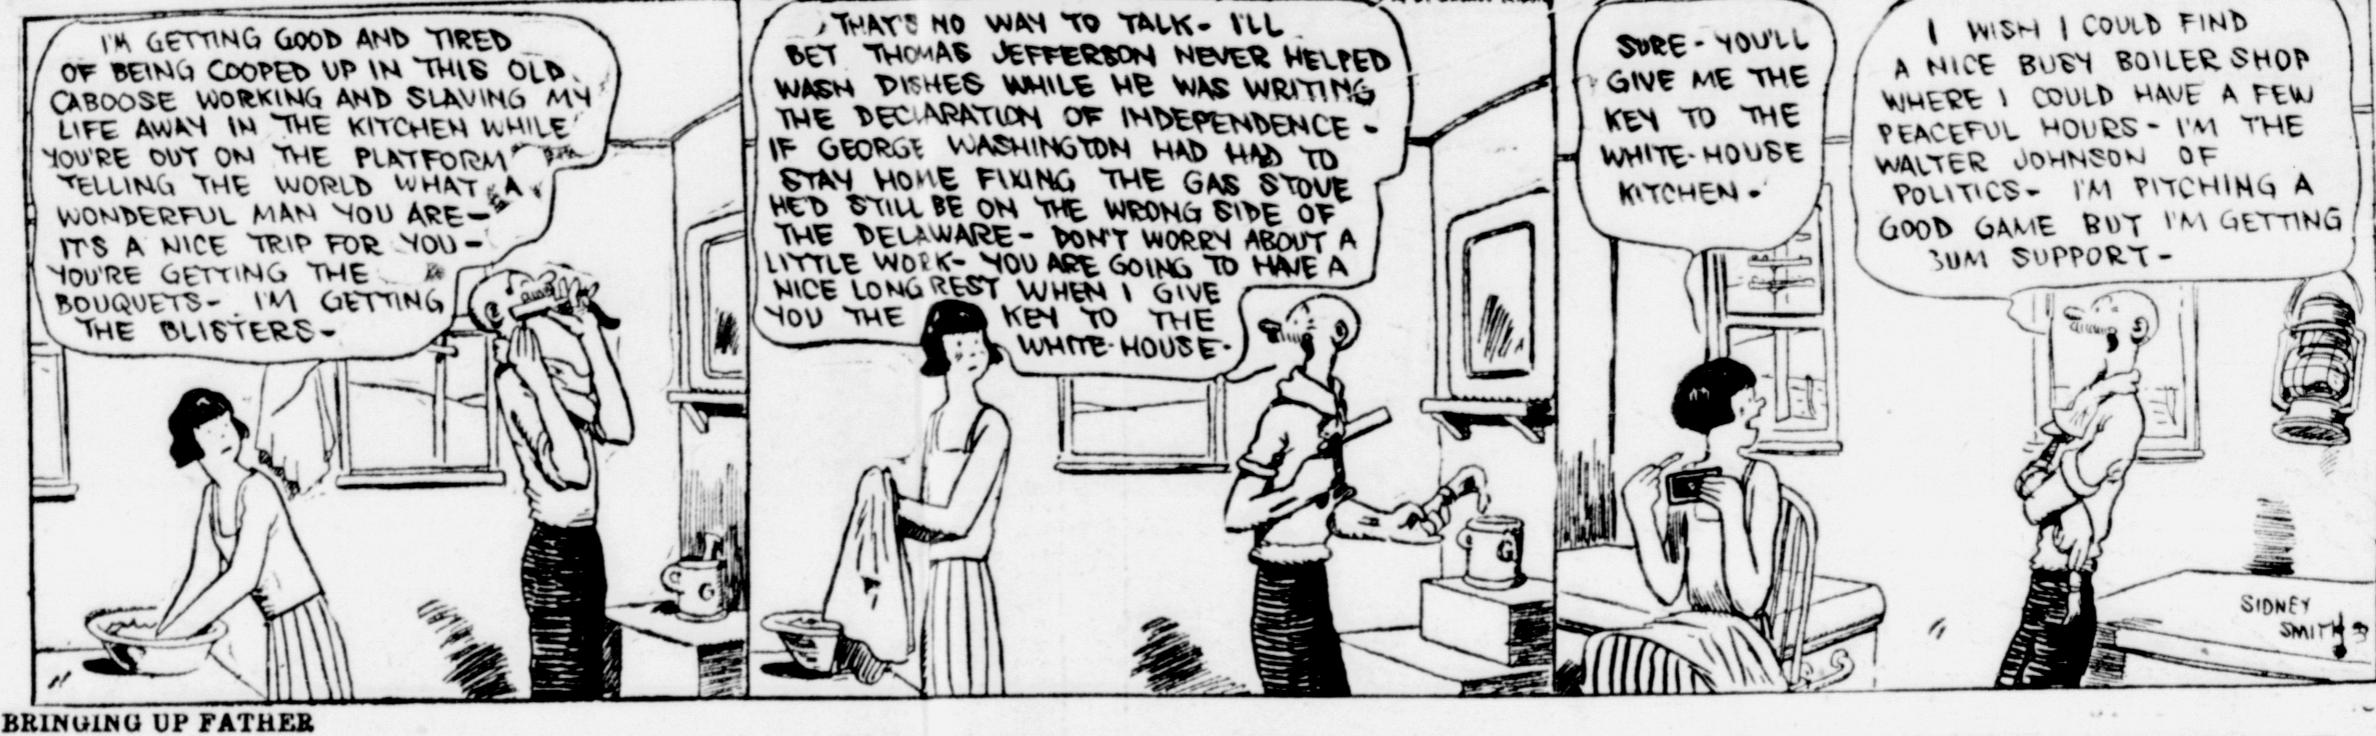

Judith had come.

Across the floor, now nearly deserted, Bud Lee and Marcia stared at her. She was coming toward them, her dainty slippers seeming to kiss their own reflections in the gleaming floor. It was Judith. A wonderfully gowned, transcendently lovely Judith. A Judith who had long hidden herself, masquerading, and who now stepped forth smiling and bright and vividly beautiful; a Judith of bare white arms, round and soft and rich in their tender curves; a Judith whose filmy gown floated about her like a sun-shot mist; a Judith whose skin above the low-cut corsage was like a baby's, whose tender mouth was a red flower, whose hair was a shimmering mass of bronze-brown, whose eyes were Aphrodite's own, glorious, dawn-gray; a Judith of rare maidenly charm; a glorious, palpitant, triumphant Judith.

Marriage Legality Being Contested by Old English Family

LONDON — The legitimacy of the deemed heirs to the Duchy of Somer-set, one of England's oldest titles, dating back to 1240, is being contested in one of the queerest cases on record. It is now before the Committee of Privileges of the House of Lords.

The argument of the case turns upon the question whether or not Colonel Francis Compton Seymour was legally married to Leonora Hudson in the latter part of the eighteenth century. Leonora Hudson was the grandmother of the present heir to the Duchy, Sir Edward Hamilton Seymour.

Previous to her marriage to Colonel Seymour, Leonora Hudson was the beautiful wife of an English seaman. The duke met her accidentally when he went to her rescue on a London street when she was being attacked by her husband. Several years later the Duke married the girl, when it was believed Seaman Hudson had been lost at sea.

Later the then Duchess of Somersat believed she saw her former husband loitering about her home. It has never been confirmed whether or not Hudson was still living at the time. The defense in the present action maintains that second marriage was consummated in 1792 to make assurance doubly sure. Despite the fact that 600 circular letters were sent throughout England this second marriage has not yet been officially confirmed.

The House of Lords committee expects to give a decision about November 1.

Of 54,420,000 qualified voters in this country four years ago only 26,671,600 voted at the presidential election.

An Important Message to Every JORDAN Owner

IT has been most gratifying to me to enjoy that wonderful expression of confidence which has been given to the Jordan Company by the apparently unanimous acceptance by Jordan owners of the new Great Jordan Line Eight.

It is only natural that I should experience a great pleasure in expressing to Jordan owners my appreciation of the efforts of Jordan engineers in producing what I really believe to be the best automobile from a practical point of view that has ever been produced in America.

Hundreds of Jordan owners who in the past have been accustomed to think of two or three other much higher priced cars as being leaders from the standpoint of performance and quality, have learned through companionship with The Great Line Eight that there is no car built in America which is any better.

The sales record has been startling.

This is no doubt due to the reputation our previous models have acquired as high grade product, coupled with the fact that we are building an automobile to list below $3000 which can only be compared with those selling for at least $1000 more.

It was our primary purpose in building The Great Line Eight to provide for Jordan owners at a price well within their reach, the best motor car we could possibly build.

I say "well within their reach" because if you compute the value of all the added features which have been incorporated in The Great Line Eight, you will discover that it is really a lower priced automobile, from the standpoint of quality and features, than any other car built in America.

Jordan owners are not cheap buyers. They represent that admirable group of Americans who are intelligent enough to realize that economy does not consist of low price, but in lasting investment value.

It is very simple to prove that an automobile which lasts a long time and possesses a high second hand valuation is really a cheaper buy than a car which sells for a lower list price and depreciates with more rapidity.

This, then, is the important message I want to convey.

It would please me greatly to have every Jordan owner ride in The Great Line Eight. Every Jordan representative will be happy to accord him this privilege.

Then compare this car with any other car at any price.

If you are pleased with The Great Line Eight tell other people about it.

If you are not, write me personally.

If, perchance, you are one of that very large group of people who find it necessary to acquire another automobile for the family, and family demands for transportation are now great, I believe you will choose the Jordan.

Hundreds of Jordan owners who in the past have been accustomed to think of two or three other much higher priced cars as being leaders from the standpoint of performance and quality, have learned through companionship with The Great Line Eight that there is no car built in America which is any better.

The sales record has been startling.

This is no doubt due to the reputation our previous models have acquired as high grade product, coupled with the fact that we are building an automobile to list below $3000 which can only be compared with those selling for at least $1000 more.

It was our primary purpose in building The Great Line Eight to provide for Jordan owners at a price well within their reach, the best motor car we could possibly build.

I say "well within their reach" because if you compute the value of all the added features which have been incorporated in The Great Line Eight, you will discover that it is really a lower priced automobile, from the standpoint of quality and features, than any other car built in America.

Jordan owners are not cheap buyers. They represent that admirable group of Americans who are intelligent enough to realize that economy does not consist of low price, but in lasting investment value.

It is very simple to prove that an automobile which lasts a long time and possesses a high second hand valuation is really a cheaper buy than a car which sells for a lower list price and depreciates with more rapidity.

This, then, is the important message I want to convey.

It would please me greatly to have every Jordan owner ride in The Great Line Eight. Every Jordan representative will be happy to accord him this privilege.

Then compare this car with any other car at any price.

If you are pleased with The Great Line Eight tell other people about it.

If you are not, write me personally.

If, perchance, you are one of that very large group of people who find it necessary to acquire another automobile for the family, and family demands for transportation are now great, I believe you will choose the Jordan.

SEVEN GRANTED DIVORCES HERE

Action Brought Three Years Ago Removed From Docket.

Several "ancient" divorce cases were brought to a close when the court this week made entries closing the incidents.

One of the oldest cases on the docket was marked off when the action of Agnes Schuster against her husband, John Schuster, was tried to the court. The case was entered November 29, 1921. The defendant in it's case filed a cross petition and answered, and at the hearing the defendant withdrew his answer. There was then a trial to the court, and the plaintiff was given a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The custody of the children was also placed in the care of the plaintiff, and alimony as agreed upon was awarded, in addition to the defendant paying the plaintiff $10 every two weeks for the support of the minor children. The plaintiff was represented by K. L. Colburn, of Salem, and Attorney Walter W. Black, of Lisbon.

A week ago the court informed attorneys that hereafter all divorce actions on the docket of the age of one year and no additional action taken, these would be dismissed from the docket. The first case under this ruling to come under the observation of the court was the action for divorce filed by Cäsus Squires against his wife, Mary E. Squires. This case was filed by Attorney W. S. Fouks for his client March 7, 1922, and has been dragging along ever since without the plaintiff instructing his counsel to proceed. Thereupon the court dismissed the action this week at the costs of the plaintiff.

For failure to prosecute her cause, the same fate was handed out in the case of Verna Papendry against Pete Papendry. An order of alimony was issued in this case as prayed for when it was filed, and his order has now been vacated and the divorce action also dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff.

Evelina Burbick has been given a decree of divorce from her husband, Oscar J. Burbick, on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and restored to her maiden name, Evelina Smith. The case was filed June 24, last.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, Oscar E. Mellinger has been granted a divorce from his wife, Phyllis Mellinger, upon payment of the costs of the action.

On the motion of the plaintiff, the divorce case of Loraine B. Marshall against Walter S. Marshall has been dismissed by the court. The costs are to be paid by the plaintiff, and the injunction granted when the action was filed has been dissolved.

Gross neglect of duty was the grounds upon which Rebecca Anne Rice secured a divorce from Benjamin S. Rice. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Anne Adkins.

Because he has been absent from his wife for over three years, was the reason the court granted a divorce to Mary B. Talley from W. Weston Talley. She has been restored to her maiden name, that of Mary B. Wilson.

SHIP TUBERCULIN CATTLE, IS PLAN

Several hundred tuberculin cattle will likely be shipped out of Columbian county next week as a result of the tabulation of the first reports on the reactors located during the last three days of the week.

These reports will be assembled in the office of the County Farm Bureau Saturday night, and Monday arrangements will be made to have the condemned cattle assembled at convenient shipping points to be shipped to Cleveland.

Tuberculin testers will resume work Monday morning.

The tuberculin test work in the 12 townships now under way will not likely be finished until about December 1.

CATTLE OWNERS LAUD CAMPAIGN

Lending Aid to Men Now Engaged in Tuberculin Tests.

Not later than December 1 99 per cent or more of the tuberculin cattle now being sold in Columbian county will have been eliminated from the market, according to Federal Inspector A. J. DeFosset and County Agent Clarence E. Rowland.

Within a year Columbian county will be known in all markets as an accredited area, for by that time there will not be any tuberculin cattle within the bounds of the county.

The first car of tuberculin cattle to be gathered since the test in Hanover township began some days ago was shipped from Kensington Thursday, and in a mixed car that was also shipped out of Homeworth there were 15 head of tuberculin cattle, the letter "T" being branded on the jaw of each head round tuberculin.

The first three days of testing ended Wednesday night, and Thursday the 12 state veterinarians went back to their starting point and will "read" the results of their three days of testing. Reports are to be made to County Agent Rowland each night, and Saturday night a complete report of all reactors found in the three days of testing will be announced.

Not one owner of a herd has refused to have his herd tested so far and those who have had their cattle put through the test and a "clear" record given, are loudest in their praise for the campaign.

It is now assured that the testing in all of the 18 townships in the county will be finished on or before November 1, and immediately thereafter Dr. E. E. Stoner, of Salem township, will begin the second test in Franklin township, which was the first township in the county to be tested. When this township is cleaned up the second time by Dr. Stoner, then that particular area will be known as accredited territory. Testing in other townships will follow in the order they were first tested.

It has been made plain that the herd of any owner refusing to test shall be quarantined by the veterinarian assigned to that township. Infected herds will not be quarantined unless the owner refuses to sign an agreement, which must be received for all herds having infection. All reactors are to be appraised, branded and ear-tagged, and the appraisement is to be made by the veterinarian and the owner.

Accredited herds found in a township now being tested may be retested at the request of the owner, provided that the last test was made six months or more ago. Herds in the process of accreditation, which at any time have had infection, shall receive a combination test, provided the herd is due for accreditation and the owner is an accredited herd certifier.

It has been made known that all cattle within the city limits of Wellsville are also to be subjected to the tuberculin test. The foreign element in Wellsville is declared to own many cattle, and these are not to be overlooked in the campaign to eradicate all tuberculin cattle from the county.

"We have the history of many babies who have been fed tuberculin milk," announced Dr. DeFosset just before he left Lisbon for Jefferson, Ashtabula county, where preliminary plans are being made for a tuberculin test.

"The history of these babies and the photographs accompanying the history shows the development of tuberculosis in its early state, and each case was caused by the baby being fed milk from tuberculin cows."

It was then indicated that more or less tuberculin milk is now being sold in this county, and that within the next six weeks over 90 per cent of the tuberculin milk now marketed will have been eliminated.

Babies under one year of age will be examined Tuesday from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and children from the age of one to six years will be examined Wednesday between the hours of 9 and 4 o'clock.

People living along the road are donating their services in placing this road in passable condition. There will be practically no cost to the county, outside of the wages of the truck drivers.

Mrs. Anna Hazel was a Columbian caller Tuesday.

Jesse Halverstadt spent Thursday on the old home farm south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Kelley, Mrs. A. F. Hepner, Mrs. Howard Cuthbert and their mother, Mrs. Alice McMillen, spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Schisler, at McDonald, Ohio.

Mrs. E. J. Hagerty of Lisbon, visited her sister, Mrs. Thomas Turney and transacted business in Leetonia Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cameron received a call to become the pastor of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church, succeeding the Rev. Paul E. Carson, who resigned to become pastor of the United Presbyterian church at Struthers.

Women from all parts of the county will take part in this meeting, which will likely bring out details concerning the activity the women are taking in the campaign.

A portion of the former Bradbury hotel building, West Lincoln way, Lisbon, has been leased by Salem and Leetonia interests, who will remodel the first floor and open a men's clothing and furnishing store. The property has been idle for a number of years.

WRIGHT RETURNS FROM COLUMBUS

Lending Aid to Men Now Engaged in Tuberculin Tests.

Not later than December 1 90 per cent or more of the tuberculin cattle now being sold in Columbiania county will have been eliminated from the market, according to Federal Inspector A. J. DeFosset and County Agent Clarence E. Rowland.

Within a year Columbiania county will be known in all markets as an accredited area, for by that time there will not be any tuberculin cattle within the bounds of the county.

The first egg of tuberculin cattle to be gathered since the test in Hanover township began some days ago was shipped from Kensington Thursday, and in a mixed car that was also shipped out of Homeworth there were 15 head of tuberculin cattle, the letter "T" being branded on the jaw of each head found tuberculin.

The first three days of testing ended Wednesday night, and Thursday the 12 state veterinarians went back to their starting point and will "read" the results of their three days of testing. Reports are to be made to County Agent Rowland each night, and Saturday night a complete report of all reactors found in the three days of testing will be announced.

Not one owner of a herd has refused to have his herd tested so far, and those who have had their cattle put through the test and a "clear" record given, are loudest in their praise for the campaign.

It is now assured that the testing in all of the 18 townships in the county will be finished on or before November 1, and immediately thereafter Dr. E. E. Stoner, of Salem township, will begin the second test in Franklin township, which was the first township in the county to be tested. When this township is cleaned up the second time by Dr. Stoner, then that particular area will be known as accredited territory. Testing in other townships will follow in the order they were first tested.

Four divorce actions are to be contested, the first listed for trial being that of Frank E. Carson against Clara C. Carson, the latter having filed a cross petition and answer to the petition of the plaintiff. Carson is represented by Attorney W. H. Spence, while Mrs. Carson has retained Attorney Charles S. Speaker.

CHESTER AND LOCAL HIGH GRIDDERS SET FOR BATTLE

BOTH ELEVENS ANTICIPATING HARD CONTEST

Regular Lineups Will Probably Be Used by Teams' Coaches.

Having grown from the status of a mere practice workout to the interest attracting proportions of a first-class game, the annual clash between East Liverpool and Chester high school football squads which will be staged on Saturday afternoon at Patterson Field, promises at this date to surpass all previous engagements between the two teams in thrills and rivalry. The two elevens will line up for the kick-off at 3:30 o'clock with a big attendance expected.

Chester adherents, confident that this year is their point to the decisive 36 to 0 victory of the squad over Newell last Saturday which gave the Chesterites a firm grasp on the Hancock county grid title. The Chester followers also point out that East Liverpool defeated the Newell grididers by a much smaller score.

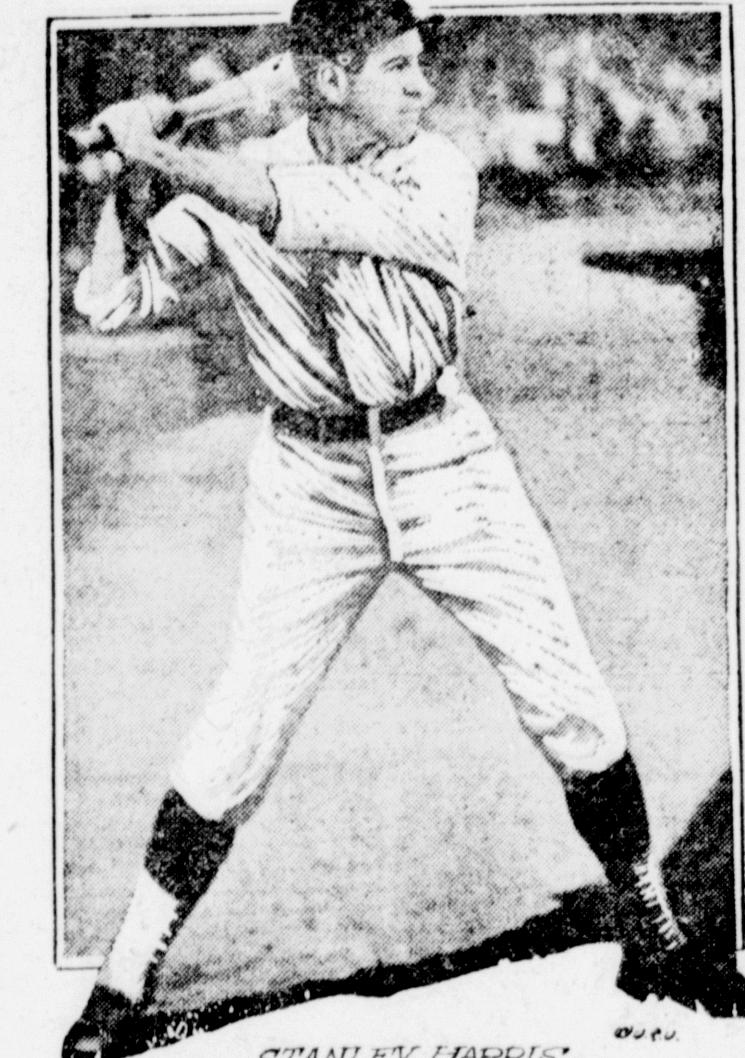

But football statistics are flagrantly unreliable and Coach O. V. Boone and his high school lads have nominated themselves to prove that this is true today.

Their victory over Sebring last Saturday increased the confidence of the team as a whole and, while realizing that they will be forced to fight all the way against the Chester grididers, they feel certain they will be able to turn in another win. Whoever wins, however, will have to play football.

GREYS SIGN TWO PLAYERS

Get Wright, Tackle, and F. E. Moore, Half- Back.

TREMAINE WINS FROM GOODMAN

Manager George Cochrane, of the East Liverpool Greys, Saturday announced the signing of two additional stars, materially increasing the club's strength, he asserted. The Greys will have the services of Ben Wright, of New Cumberland, a lineman, and F. E. Moore, of this city, a halfback.

Wright usually plays a tackle position. Tipping the beam at 215 pounds he should be able to hold down his side of the line with the capable Stein on the other.

Moore has been playing with an out-of-town eleven this season but will return to the Greys. Last year he performed brilliantly for the Niles independents.

Manager Cochran is now negotiating with officials of the Wellsville Webster Billiards for an intercity series, the details of which are expected to be completed within the next few weeks.

Coach Boone sent the squad through a stiff workout Friday night at City Park working them on various plays until after darkness had shrouded the field. He is now beginning to cut the squad.

Coleman coaching the line and Boone working on the backfield, officers of the Greys are confident a winning team will be the result.

Giants Quick To Extend Full Measure of Credit To Victorious Senators

McGraw Predicts Great Career for Stanley Harris, Boy Manager, and Declares He's Glad That, As Long As He Had to Lose, It Was to Walter Johnson; Takes Loss Stoically.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Something after the manner of Napoleon's historic retreat from Moscow, the chastened New York Giants arrived in town this morning on an overnight train from Washington, secretly convinced that the better team lost, but publicly giving due credit to the Senators for their victory in the world series.

Strange to say, they were almost debonair in defeat. The so-called Hitler, Napoleon, John J. McGraw hardly presented the aspect of the dejected, slumped-over figure that a great artist painted of that earlier retreat. He wasn't jubilant; neither was he forlorn.

Somehow, the Giants had arrived at the conclusion that fate, as much as the Senators, had beaten them, and at the same time the individual players were quick to shoulder what blame was theirs.

"Let Harris' hit in the eighth hit me," said young Fred Lindstrom, "I grooved one for Harris in the third," declared Barnes.

"I should have been able to get that mask out from under my foot" quoth Gowdy. And so it went. There was little or no blame to be taken and the players took it.

Although careful to avoid committing themselves to the effect, the Giants to a man still believed they were the best ball club.

A top-off on their attitude was the fact that few of them carried handbaggage, this being not a case of neglect but of supreme self-confidence.

When the club departed for Washington to play the sixth game, George Kelly didn't even carry a tooth brush. He expected to be on his way to New York the night of the sixth game with the series ended and the Giants the winner.

Perhaps the man who should have taken defeat the hardest seemed to be the most boorish. A desperate opponent, John McGraw, also proved himself a cheerful loser.

He hastened to graceful admission of the fact that the Senators richly deserved their victory, discounted the breaks that decided the final game and predicted a brilliant career for Stanley Harris, the 27-year-old man winner.

"I didn't feel badly about it," said McGraw. "Defeat is just something that must be taken in its stride. It's part of life. You can't win all the time and now that it is all over, it doesn't mean so much to me as it may to you. I have had plenty of winners in my time."

"The breaks helped to stop us, but breaks are part of every ball game and we would have had to get them to win."

"I think Harris deserves a lot of credit for the way he handled his team. He is still young and should have lots of winners before he is through with baseball. I hope he has as many as I have had."

"I was glad that it was Johnson who beat us as long as some one had to. I would rather have him do it than anyone I know."

"Plans will be discussed definitely for the season's activities. Representatives from the following shops are expected: Hall China, E. M. Knowles, Trotters, Ford Motors, Potters, Woodbine Laundry, Laughlin No. 6, Laughlin No. 5, Davidson's Decorators and others.

Glenn Curtiss Says "It's Surprising!"

After a demonstration in the new Willys-Knight Sedan equipped with the Lanchester Balancer, the famous aeroplane builder said—"It is surprising. I drove the car at all speeds up to 50 miles an hour and found absolutely no engine vibration."

Vibrationless Motoring

Automobile engineers have been striving for many years to lay the ghost of vibration—but it has remained for the Willys-Knight to bring to the United States the secret of vibrationless engine-running—

The Lanchester Balancer—a great discovery by a great genius—the invention of Dr. F. W. Lanchester, F.R.S., of Great Britain, builder of one of the world's most expensive motor cars.

With this new ingenuity of engineering, Willys-Knight achieves positive engine smoothness at all speeds. A smoothness almost incredible to the thousands and thousands of automobile owners who have always thought vibration in a car to be a necessary evil.

This achievement is all the more notable for being sponsored by a car with so many other great achievements to its credit. Willys-Knight long since ended the days of valve-grinding and carbon-cleaning—and the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine is known around the world as the engine that improves with use.

Leading engineering authorities, car owners, the public generally, are impressed by Willys-Knight's vibrationless performance. A ride is a new thrill—a new experience—a new conception of motoring pleasure. Take a ride today!

Brookins, Hurdler, May Use Stride With Success on Grid

Charles R. Brookins, Iowa U. student and world's champion hurdler, is out for football this fall and believes he can use his hurdling stride to advantage legitimately in carrying the ball. An opponent in the open field may be hurdled without penalty if he is on his knees. On the line, the rule says, hurdling is jumping over an opponent with both feet or knees foremost. Brookins hurdle stride is outside this rule. He's shown above hurdling on the track and in action on the grid. If the opponent in the lower photo is considered a line player the leap is legal.

Average wage received by men in Jefferson county was given as $25 to $30 a week. Women were said to have averaged $15 to $20 a week.

Of the 13,627 persons employed there last year, 12,495 were men.
